

CHESHIRE NEWSPAPERS

This list includes all newspapers published locally in Cheshire (both pre-1974 and post-1974 boundaries).

For each year of publication it shows whether any copies are held at the Cheshire Record Office (CRO) or at local libraries in the boroughs of Cheshire West and Chester, Cheshire East, Halton and Warrington.

The last column shows whether copies are known to be held by the newspaper department of the British Library. Those marked "Online" are available through their website at:

<https://www.britishnewspaperarchive.co.uk/>

This website can be accessed through the computers in the Record Office searchroom (ask staff for assistance), and newly-digitised issues are being added on a weekly basis, so our list may not always be up-to-date.

We ask you to use microfilm or microfiche copies where these are available, to prevent any damage caused by handling fragile newspapers. Original issues can be viewed if no alternatives are available, but those marked as "off-site" may require several days to be retrieved from our out-store. Please consult staff before ordering original issues.

CHESTER COURANT

Published in Chester between 1732 and 1982, originally as Adam's Weekly Courant. The earliest known issue (No. 51) dates from 14 November 1733.

Adam's Weekly Courant (Wednesday 29 November 1732–Tuesday 12 November 1793)

Publication dates were given according to the modern calendar, even before the new year officially changed from 25 March to 1 January in 1752. A notable exception is the issue of 5 January 1748, whose date was misprinted as 1747 and there are several other irregularities concerning dates and issue numbers throughout the eighteenth century.

CHESTER WEEKLY JOURNAL

The earliest surviving issue dates from May 1724, making it the oldest Chester newspaper. After 1733 it was either discontinued or changed its name, possibly to the Chester Weekly Tatler, or the Industrious Bee.

The Chester Weekly Journal (by 21 May 1724–1733 ?)

Publication dates are given according to the pre-1752 calendar, in which the year started on 25 March. Pages are missing from some issues and in some cases photocopies may be produced due to the fragile condition of the originals.
